Lintec management changes ensure continuity for further expansion

Lintec Testing Services Ltd has appointed Geoff Jones as Global Fuels Director following the most successful twelve months in the company's history.

Geoff will assume his new role on April 1 with Steve Bee succeeding Geoff Jones as General Manager.

Tracy Wardell, an experienced technical manager in the global oil testing industry, has also joined Lintec's management team as Operations & Key Accounts Manager, the role formerly held by Steve Bee.

Geoff Jones says, "Steve Bee's appointment is designed to help position Lintec for further successful development on an international scale and will allow me to focus on growing Lintec's global footprint.

It is good news for everybody, and particularly for our customers, because it provides the continuity which is essential for growth and improvement. "There has never been a more challenging time for the bunker testing sector, given the regulatory and legislative focus on safety and environmental protection. With its new company structure, Lintec is ideally placed to protect its clients' interests by providing the very best in global fuel testing services."

Steve Bee, who joined Lintec in 2007, has more than 25 years' experience of analytical chemistry and business management. Steve commented, "The new roles for Geoff and I will set fresh challenges that can further enhance the development of Lintec in the global market".

Lintec Testing Services is one of the world's leading fuel testing services, providing shipowners and charterers with an independent, high quality and rapid response global fuel testing programme. Lintec is a wholly owned subsidiary of Intertek UK Holdings Ltd. It has a global network with laboratories in the UK, Rotterdam, Singapore and Shanghai, providing a 24 hour global bunker fuel testing service.
